

Michael Fink is a scientist and entrepreneur leading early-stage innovation and applied research in digital-meets-physical technologies, drawing from expertise in chemistry, material science, biotechnology, and informatics. Michael is the CEO of Mask Logic, an Edinburgh-based startup developing personalized face wear for workers in hazardous environments.

Prior to relocating from Massachusetts to Scotland in 2022, he was an Erwin Schrödinger Postdoctoral Fellow (2015–2017) and later Research Associate (2017–2020) in the research group of George M. Whitesides at the Department of Chemistry and Chemical Biology, Harvard University. Michael holds a Ph.D in chemical engineering from TU Wien in Austria, has co-authored 27 peer-reviewed articles, and is an inventor on six patent applications.

Michael, currently vice president of ASCINA, co-led the chapter in the Greater Boston Area from 2016 to 2022 alongside Magdalena Klemun and served as president of the Harvard Club of Austria Student Chapter and on the organizing committee of the McCloy Viennese Ball at Harvard (2016–2022).